Austrian Woman Lawyer Tells About
Rule of Nazis in Rotary Club Talk

Refugee from Native Land Now Living at
Mt. Gilead

A vivid description of life in Vienna, Austria, during the year she lived there under Nazi control was given to Marion Rotarians in their weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding yesterday by Mrs. H. A. Illing of Mt. Gilead, who with her husband came to the United States in February of last year as refugees from their native country.

Mrs. Illing and her husband located in Mt. Gilead when Mr. Illing obtained work as a mechanical engineer with the Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co. at Mt. Gilead. Both are Jews and natives of Vienna. Mrs. Illing, 31 years of age, is a lawyer and practiced law for seven years in Vienna before their departure. They fled Austria when all Jews were ordered out of the country by the Nazi regime and after Mr. Illing had been imprisoned in a concentration camp. He was placed in a camp in the revenge roundup of Jews that followed the fatal shooting of a German consul official in Paris by a Jewish youth.

Everything Different

In Austria the change from a republic to a dictatorship rule brought about a complete change in life, Mrs. Illing told Rotarians. The Nazi government immediately launched a program to revamp the ideals of the economy and the education of the country and dealt harshly with all who failed to cooperate, she said.

Loosing the backbone for Hitler's rise to power she pointed out that Germany suffered greatly after the World war. Unemployment was widespread and the land was impoverished. Hitler promised everything—cures for all ills revenge for the 14 years of

MAN CRITICAL IN GUN MISHAP

Bullet Glances from Water, Wounds Marionite at Sugar
Grove Lake.

Frank Roddy, 34, of 311 East Fairground street was accidentally shot and critically wounded this morning at Sugar Grove Lake, 14 miles southeast of Bucyrus. Attendants at Bucyrus City hospital described his condition as dangerous.

Crawford county officials investigating the shooting said they were told the accident occurred about 9 a. m. while two Marion boys, Harry Wilson and William Richards, both 16, were shooting snakes on the north shore of the lake with 22 caliber rifles. One of the bullets apparently struck the water, ricochetted over the surface of the lake and struck Mr. Roddy, who was fishing on the south shore.

Locles Near Heart

The physician attending Mr. Roddy said the bullet entered the left side of the back several inches above the waist and apparently had lodged near the heart.

Deputy Sheriff Elwood Jacobs of Crawford county questioned Mr. Roddy a short time after the shooting and reported Mr. Roddy had exonerated the youths describing the shooting as just an accident. Sheriff A. H. French said the youths were questioned at the lake resort but were not held.

Persons at the resort said the youths did not realize immediately that Mr. Roddy had been shot and that since both had been shooting at the time it was difficult to determine which one fired the bullet that caused the wound.

Sheriff French said it is not unusual for a bullet fired into water to strike the surface at an angle and ricochet across the surface for a great distance. He estimated that the lake is approximately 700 yards wide at the point where the mishap occurred.

Mr. Roddy, a preacher of the Nazarene denomination here, had been vacationing at the resort for the last several days. He is a mill worker at the Pollak Steel Co.

He and his wife, Mrs. Hazel Roddy and their three children had gone to the lake to spend the summer.

The Marion youth had accompanied his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of 488 Pearl street to the lake for the July 4th holiday. They went there at the invitation of the Roddy family and were staying in a nearby cottage.

HEARING TIME CHANGED

The naturalization hearing scheduled for July 10 in the common pleas courtroom will be held at 9 a. m. instead of 1:30 p. m. as previously announced. Clerk of Courts Carl F. Haberman reported today. Twenty Marion county residents are expected to appear before the naturalization examiner for final citizenship papers.

THIRD PARTY TALK GROWS TO BACK WHEELER

Lewis Boosts Montanan with Indorsement at Townsend
National Convention.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, July 3—While a 12 member advisory committee took charge of Wendell Willkie's Republican presidential campaign, John I. Lewis' indorsement of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler for president developed new third party talk today among the Wheeler forces.

Lewis gave his indorsement in an address at the national Town and pension convention at St. Louis yesterday shortly after Wheeler had told reporters that his name would be placed before the Democratic national convention regarder of whether President Roosevelt sought renomination.

Wheeler previously had said he would seek the nomination only if Mr. Roosevelt did not run for a third term. The latter has two thirds of the Democratic delegates, but declined to give his press conference yesterday any hint of his intentions.

Will the champ accept Mr. Willkie's challenge? a reporter asked the President.

Mr. Roosevelt failed to catch the reference until another newsmen observed that Willkie had expressed the hope that he would meet the champ in November.

Mr. Roosevelt smiled and re-plied he did not know. He said he had not read the challenge.

Wont Even Prophecy

He refused to comment on Willkie's nomination or on the Republican platform. When asked whether he would have a statement on his own availability before the Democratic convention meets in Chicago July 15, he replied he was not even a minor prophet.

He said he expected to be in Hyde Park N. Y. this week end and on a Palomar river cruise the week end before the convention.

Without waiting for the Democrats to pick their opponent, Willkie began yesterday to organize his campaign. He said that he wanted no corporate contributions in any guise and that any contributions exceeding $5,000 from one source would be rejected.

At the head of the 12-man advisory committee he placed Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, his convention floor leader. Also invited to serve were Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of New Mexico, co-manager of Thomas E. Dewey's pre-convention campaign, and David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, who managed Sen. Robert A. Taft's bid for the nomination.

He and Mrs. Mason were together at the time of the attack and Mrs. Mason called physicians who immediately ordered Mr. Mason taken to the hospital.

About 4 this morning he suffered a relapse and at noon the hospital reported his condition to be very serious according to a Canton news report.

BUSY JULY 4 PROGRAM SET

Nearby Communities Plan Celebrations Including Fireworks, Parades

Special celebrations are being planned at many nearby points for the observance. Thursday is the 164th anniversary of our nation's independence with the traditional July 4th festivities keeping the limelight.

Business activity generally will be suspended for the day. At La-Rue, Kenton, Caledonia, Richwood
and other localities in this section
special celebrations will be staged.
Marion residents are expected to journey far and wide to take part in varied activity ranging from week-ends at nearby resorts to participation in and attendance at various sporting events.

Fireworks so far as Marion proper is concerned are tubo. But the novelties and decorative pieces which have been on sale at all points immediately surrounding the city very likely will get the usual enthusiastic interest of most youngsters and many of their elders. They have been cautioned by authorities, however, against using them in Marion as well as against the general danger involved.

Without waiting for the Democrats to pick their opponent, Willkie began yesterday to organize his campaign. He said that he wanted no corporate contributions in any guise and that any contributions exceeding $5,000 from one source would be rejected.

102nd Birthday To Be Marked by Marion Resident

John Burgle of 140 Waterloo street believed Marion county's oldest resident will celebrate his 102nd birthday anniversary of the Fourth of July at the home of his grandson, Jerry Welch
of south of Marion near New-mans.

Mr. Burgle went visiting on Monday, July 1, at the home of John and Mrs. Elsie Robinson of Waterloo street, address

went to bring him home he said

he liked to remain at the Welch

home over the Fourth.

Some of his family will be with him to celebrate his birthday. He has a son Joseph now living in Delaware seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mr. Burgle a native of Park

Fraser is a naturalized citizen.

He came to this country 80 years ago and before coming to Marion after the death of his wife several years ago he lived in Springfield, Columbus and Delaware. He was past 95 years of age when he quit operating a delivery service in Delaware.

He is in excellent health his daughter said today. He had a slight cold in the winter but home treatment was effective and it is not necessary to call a physician.

July 4 Brings Memories of Marion's "Wigwam"

Popular Theatrical and Social Center of Days Gone By Was Dedicated on Independence Day, 1883.

For youth, Colonel Jim was ever the next best thing to a circus in town as manager of the Wigwam and the hearts of aspiring lads were made to beat proudly beneath a coat of tin armor and the crush of a Roman helmet of the same material as certain transformations were made to meet the additional soldiers or other supernumeraries.

Decoration Drama

The Wigwam made its initial bow in the public in a war drama then in high favor—"The Drummer Boy of Shiloh" which Johnny Clem the "real drummer boy" of heroic memory directed with a cast drawn from the best talent Marion could present. Charles Bowen played the role of the drummer boy.

All the hardy barefoot boys flocking to the recruiting ground in Tin Can alley had been employed throughout two days in placing a rising floor and the necessary wooden chairs the last touch to the Wigwam in preparation for the coming production.

Young Will Sargent was the supervisor of the expectant pass holders. Numbered in their ranks were William Dowler, Fred A.

Stengel, Charles D. Schaffner, Tom McFarland, Ned Burke, Nick

Iler, Billy Haberman, Edward

Sharpless, Tip Hughes, George

B. McMurray, Charles Bern

Brooks, Stouffer, Samuel E. Smith

Will Dusenberry and so many others in their various capacities that Corey Petit in the box office found little financial encouragement in the first offering for the Wigwam. Its popular success was assured but institutions like individuals can not be popular.

Fruitful years were ahead for the Wigwam, however, when its story was not written in the red and supernumeraries did not des ecide like the locusts of Egypt and consume all the fat thereof.

Center of Activities

The effect of the advent of the Wigwam on local juvenile life was impressive indeed. Here at the ancient throne of Jhespian youth bowed its head in adoration and garnered its earliest notions of love and peace of war and strat egem of all the complexities of human society from the dramatic figures strutting across the stage boards in the oily glare of the primitive footlights and living their hours in an atmosphere of their own creation according to their art.

Youth fluttered about the place

as the moth about the candle

submerged in its own enthusiasms

and little time elapsed until the town was alive with embryo black face comedians, ventriloquists,

magicians, dancers and even a few pretty little soubrettes se lected their rapiers and wore their hearts on their sleeves.

It was not long until Ned

Burke and Nick Iler were doing

stirring tunes with the minstrel

troupe of Hi Henry or Al G

Fields. Thus same youth of the withered years will also recall

when Colonel Jim proclaimed an

edict against the presence of all

boys for one night only. The occa sion was the appearance of Rose

Hill's Follies which had brought a protest throughout the little

city as loud as it was emphatic.

The colonel could not break his contract and as a result he found

the mortals of Marion men safe

guarded by the presence of three policemen, John Frame, Tom

Mack and Ed Masterson when the curtain rose. Consequently

Rose Hill and her satellites ap peared in costume as modest as the hoop skirts and bustles worn by their forebears and that would put present day street wear to shame.

Here and thus memory weaves

a garland and lays a tribute on the picture of the old Wigwam in its gay Victorian days that can never lose its charm or be erased.

Alaskan Air Defense Work Is Under Way With Need for 100 Bases Seen

It is a note. The 1,000 army and navy are building five air bases in Alaska and the other bases are projected. Will these be adequate to protect the territory? The 100 bases will be scattered over more than 100 first class airports. More ports are needed. These and other interesting facts are to be set in the "Alaskan Air Force," a Dev. B. Franklin, available at the call of the Press, who is not only a newspaper man but also a man of the world. He will tell the latest developments in the United States air armament in Alaska.

By DEVON FRANCIS

Associated Press Aviation Editor

FAIRBANKS, Alaska July 3.—On 500 acres of a flat sun-baked piece of interior Alaska the army has completed preliminary work on the runways of an air port which will serve both as an air defense base and as a tactical training center at the top of the world.

The air bases are under construction in Alaska by the army and the navy.

At a cost of perhaps $25,000,000 the services propose to set up at least an embryo of an air defense system.

For years Alaska as a military problem has not existed in terms and navy budgets. Now with a world political and military situation which has made both the administration and Congress apprehensive Alaska has been developed as the north Pacific bulwark of our air and sea defense.

Progress Made

Since last fall the survey and actual work at Sitka, Alaska, a former church northeast of town, last Wednesday. Those present were Mrs. Louise Moyer, Mrs. Harles Moyer and daughter Lou. Mrs. Nora Cook, Mrs. Linda Berringer, Mrs. Ed Klingel, Mrs. Clara Woltinger, Mrs. Mrs. Claude Cook, Mrs. Harry Klingel and son Mrs. John Klingel, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Wesley Klingel, Mrs. I. B. Shultz, Mrs. Clara Gerfen, Mrs. R. L. Barr, Mrs. M. S. Jenders, Mrs. B. B. Klingel, Mrs. Wallace Klingel, Mr. Carl Klingel and daughter Shirley, Mrs.

Following a tempest of invective bawled out by her manager during a row at Hotel Marion she arrived at the theatre late with a hurried patter of small feet and a baleful eye. After a critical glance into her dressing room she promptly called Colonel Jim and accused him of harboring both mice and peepers. The audience waited wonderingly while the bill poster plastered the sides, walls and even the floor and ceiling with a variety of posters. She then proceeded to dress.

Bill Nye and the Cat

Such was the temperamental stuff of which many of the artists of the day were made and when Bill Nye came to the Wigwam he exemplified something in his line wholly unexpected. After the experience with Minnie Madden, Colonel Jim introduced cats along with the supernumeraries. Nye was as sleek and mild mannered as any old bachelor and one could imagine him patiently donning his own socks in his dressing room in his spare moments. His aversion to cats was indeed monumental and finding one in his dressing room he sought to remove it to the street by the tail via a window. In his adventure he said much in a loud voice that was not funny. The white cotton gloves he wore throughout his performance concealed many unsightly scratches and the manager hid himself in the wings while he laughed.

Along with many stellar lights of the theatrical firmament such as Joseph Jefferson, James K. Emmett, Janacek, Denman, Thompson, Robert Downing and Robert Mintell came one of the greatest favorites, the Wigwam ever welcomed little Lizzie Evans, in Foggy Ferry's "Mugs Landing" and other roles of melodramatic atmosphere. No visit to Marion ever was made by her without a hair and buggy tour to Richwood for an hour with Mac Mealey, an old time friend and aged Bob Thursby at the old National hotel run by Billy Gaston at LaRue. The aged man was the father of Emma Thursby, a contemporary of Lizzie Evans, playing the same roles.

Home Talent Plentiful

Home talent production were ever in the making. Pinafore with Jack Neilson as the commander and Robert Emmett with John M. Cleary as the martyred Irish patriot in the latter were examples of local art. In connection with such offerings a child mimic and character actress came to visit her uncle, the late Samuel T. Beerbower. She had won attention by appearance at the Magnetic Springs. She appeared here for the first time under the name of Elsie Janis which she later made of world renown. Another talented young actress, Ada Lindsay, starred here in "In Darkest Russia" and later became one of the country's famous tragediennes. She was a cousin of the late Ralph Lindsay, a former Marion county recorder.

Turning back the time worn and ragged pages in grandfather's mental picture book he can see himself wearing a red coat and barefoot, bearing the burden of a canvas sign and marching to

stirring tunes with the minstrel

troupe of Hi Henry or Al G

withered years will also recall

when Colonel Jim proclaimed an

edict against the presence of all

boys for one night only. The occa

sion was the appearance of Rose

city as loud as it was emphatic.

the mortals of Marion men safe

bases still are in a formative stage. The army proposes to establish an anchorage a composite group consisting of a pursuit squadron, a medium bombardment squadron, a heavy bombardment squadron and a base squadron. A flight of pursuit medium bombardment and heavy bombardment planes and a detachment of the base squadron at an anchorage will come to Ladd Field here.

Territorial Gov. Ernest Gruening says Alaska needs more than 100 first class airports for defense. It has no airport of that caliber yet.

Back and Front Doors

The five bases and two or three others projected in Iuding one at Metlakatla, an island just south of Ketchikan, in the Alaskan panhandle, protect Alaska's back door. But the front door, draining off the Bering slope, the northwest Arctic slope and the Seward peninsula is wide open.

Apart from ordinary air defense outposts in Alaska for the protection of the continent from the west is the important one of the rear back of the front door as a source of raw materials.

On the Bering slope are coal deposits outcropped so strongly that the whaling ships of old used to refuel there. There is oil to the natives of the Arctic slope use oil sooted past to heating and cooking. There are rich copper deposits on the Alaska peninsula. On the outermost point of the Seward peninsula on Cape Prince of Wales are the York Inlet deposits.

The Aleutian chain of islands remains a largely unexplored and unexplored area to the navy. The seal skins of the Pribilof group are unexploited except for casual visits of bureau of fisheries boats and planes.

Casual Slaughters

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY Julia was alone in the house. Her mother was away, but she was with Jeff. Later the two took an unexpected casual slaying.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Number Three

JULIA was almost as cheerful as we played bridge with Adam and Gerald. Around eleven Jeff came in, spoke briefly and went up to his room. Julia drew down a half-closed hand.

"Now I can go home," she said and stood up.

"Has Felicia come back?" I asked.

"I haven't seen her. She must be doing the town."

"Then I think Julia should stay with me. I'm sure the War Department would drown in my unsheltered state."

Julia beamed. "You telephone Mimi," she said and went back to her room. I came back presently to re-

Adam turned it off. Julia was already at the window, watching the turn of the events.

It took a while, but between

"Give me a hand," groaned Felicia. "I'm all worn out and weak from climbing around up there."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADOLF GARRISON

Did That Mysterious Box Contain Olga's Fabulously Valuable Lost Emeralds?

LILLIAN turned her head in the direction of the main road. I'm a car, she answered me and coming fast I shall have time only to assure you that your fears are justified. Our husbands will doubtless hang us at the nearest yardarm once they get us if we have again. But just now I we have to worry about is not being seen or heard. Scrach down keep your hand on your little pistol your eyes open and your mouth closed. Don't dare to eat except noiselessly. Now is this friend or foe that comes so swiftly?

It was like her to inject that note of burlesqued melodrama in to our tense situation and I was most grateful to her for her ruse. I needed just that touch of absurdity to steady my nerves and I put out my hand and gave her a little squeeze as the approaching car slowed and came to a stop almost directly in front of us.

Two men were in the small but powerful roadster. One a young chap had a regulation chauffeur's uniform a military one while the other man in all appearances well past middle age was clad in the small uniform and he idea of an army officer his eyes hidden behind auto sunglasses while his face was equally well concealed by military moustaches and pointed beard.

Mystery Man Arrives

Lillian's fingers dug into my wrist in a signal that meant watch closely but I did not need the admonition. My eyes and ears were strained to the utmost limit of attention.

Is this the road you wanted? the chauffeur asked and one question was settled in our minds. This was no genuine army officer to condone the excesses almost disrespectful ones I gave the man a searching glance decided I never had seen him before and then turned all my attention to the other who, I was sure, was disguised.

When the answer came we could not distinguish one word of it for the elder man spoke in a low whisper whether from nerves or else we of course could not tell. But he pointed to the road down which we had been led our car and without more ado the young chauffeur duplicated our own maneuver turning his car partly around and backing it into the wood road.

Put to our relief—Lillian and I were fairly holding our respective breaths by this time—they backed their light car but a comparatively short distance into the line just enough I judged to make sure it was well around a curve so no part of its glistening surface was visible from the road.

Is this far enough? the chauffeur asked and a moment later added. Okay I'll turn her off. As you say this is a good a place as any to wait.

From the side of her mouth Lillian murmured to me. They aren't far enough in to see our car. I nodded an assent and then we sat silent wondering about the disguised man.

The Missing Emeralds

We had little time for speculation for down the road came a big high-powered car filled with men whose forbidding faces looked grim and determined. They drew up directly opposite the wood road and then alighted grouping themselves around the car in such a fashion that its body made a shield for theirs. A small car with two men in it followed them closely and drew up behind them. But neither the driver nor the man inside him alighted. Both concentrated upon the square box one held carefully in his hands with a chain and lock attached to his wrist. Once more Lillian's fingers bit into my arm and I knew that she was sharing my belief that we were looking at the receptacle of Queen Olga's lost emeralds.

Well, we're all here! one of the men in the big car declared. And I see you've got the swag. Bring it. He addressed the man with the box attached to his wrist.

Now the next thing is how long we've got to wait before our birds here for those other birds.

Maybe they've cooled their feet too long, one of the men said with a raucous laugh. Maybe the robbers are so cold they're decided to call it off.

Not those birds, mother man said. I hear a car now. Remember keep those gal hands

JULY 4th LEADERS WON'T HAVE PENNANTS CLINCHED

Leagues Have New Pacemakers Today
As Tribe and Reds Lose.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Fourth of July is supposed to be a magical date in baseball because of the legend that the teams leading their leagues on that day will wind up with the pennants later on.

But the major leagues have two new pace makers today, and are just as likely to have a different pair tomorrow, so that the only thing the holiday this year it can be expected to prove conclusively is that a lot of fans like their baseball in big doses and are willing to pay for it.

Tigers Take Lead

The Detroit Tigers ascended to the American league top spot yesterday for the first time this year and the Brooklyn Dodgers regained the National league top ranking for the seventh time.

The two St. Louis clubs took charge of yesterday's re-routings in the afternoon, the Browns turned the Cleveland Indians 5-3 and at night the Cardinals crushed the Cincinnati Reds 4-0.

The Browns a few days ago bumped the Boston Red Sox out of the American league lead.

Detroit, which had muffed opportunities to take over the lead on other occasions, boosted this chance around for two hours and 27 minutes but finally nosed out the Chicago White Sox 10-9. The Tigers were out hit 16-11 and made three errors to two.

The Dodgers were ready and eager to resume the lead from Cincinnati, plastering 14-3 shellacking on the hapless Phillies behind the three hit hurling of Tex Carleton.

Giants Near Top

The New York Giants who are close enough to take control of the senior circuit if their rivals falter lost ground as the Boston Bees banged out a 5-3 triumph.

It was a day for pitching comebacks. Bill Lee big gun of the Chicago Cubs returned to form to shutout the Pittsburgh Pirates 10 on five hits.

Lefty Gomez who hadn't made a pitching appearance in the American league since April 10 went to the mound at Washington and was effective for seven
